She's a great professor. You'll come out of any class she teaches with a great understanding of what you're learning; especially if it pertains to networking. However, she's bad at communicating. If you take any of her classes, do it in person. Any emails you send to her aren't answered timely or get brushed off as nothing; She talks down to you.

I am new to the online course system. That said, I quickly found Professor Schmidt to be very engaged with her students and one of the most responsive professors I've had here. The assignments were clearly laid out. When I had an academic question, she was quick to answer. When I had an unexpected health issue, she was both empathetic and fair.

Professor Schmidt is a good instructor. Knows what she is talking about in both hardware and software. The workload is very heavy, and the labs are tedious. A lot of material to read, but now I have a book for life packed with tech info. Very reliable in replying to emails and stays communicative throughout the term. Too many group assignments!

Confusing and unclear documents required to submit. Turned a simple "internship" to a Nuclear Science! Thinks highly of herself as above and beyond anybody and everybody else (including other Professors). Plays favoritism and discriminate people. She does not answer e-mails unless you are one of her pets.

One of the best professors I've ever had. She really cares about the material, and she really cares about the students. Class can still get hard, this is hard material; but Cheryl goes to 130% to try to help you understand. As for qualifications, I got in the habit of checking author lists on IT textbooks for her name. Amazing.

Amazing prof, shes sooo sweet and kind, I love her! I am so grateful I had her as a prof! Super easy test, but make sure you study ever little detail, because that will be on the test. Her notes are concise, gets to the point, and simple!

Cheryl is insanely knowledgeable in the field, and you WILL learn in this class. You will work hard, but most people make A's if they show up and make an effort. She has a ton of real world experience to share. Tests are challenging but not terrible, there are tons of activities in class that help with mastery and boost your grade.

Great teacher! Good level of energy. Describes/teaches well. The "however", the questions on homework/quizzes online, dont seem proof-read. Sometimes seems like a grade-schooler wrote them. Same with the "lab" material written used in the hardware/software class that have her name on it as the writer, lots of confusing grammar issues.

Cheryl's Advanced Convergent Technology class is one of the hardest, yet most satisfying courses I have ever taken. You will have to put a lot of time into it to succeed with multiple projects to turn in and a very fast pace it is easy to fall behind. At the time the textbook was completely online, yet she did a very good job of teaching.
